Serving 100,000+ Haitians Every Year

In addition to mothers and babies, entire rural communities receive access to healthcare through our programs. We run two health clinics, two maternity centers, and over 150 mobile clinics a year in some of Haiti's most remote areas.

Building a More Sustainable System

We partner with medical volunteers, universities, and local leaders to fortify healthcare infrastructure in Haiti. Using a "train the trainer" model, we are building a virtuous cycle of healthcare education and training.

Strengthening Our Communities

Our programs are based in the communities in which we serve. Our agents travel door-to-door and village-to-village, making it possible for thousands of people in the most remote areas to access health services. 98% of our staff is Haitian.

AREAS OF FOCUS

Project Medishare's programs serve over 100,000 Haitians every year.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

This program strengthens local communities through vaccination campaigns, mobile clinics, training community health workers, organizing community groups, and providing health education.

MATERNAL HEALTH

We currently run two rural maternity centers that provide prenatal and postnatal care, delivery services, and family planning to a population of more than 80,000.

CHILD HEALTH & NUTRITION

In Haiti, 1 in every 14 children die before reaching the age of 5. To change this, we provide patient visits at our clinics, conduct home visits, and run in-school health and feeding programs.

CAPACITY BUILDING

We provide Haitian healthcare leaders with mentoring, didactic sessions, and on-site patient care training. We also provide specialized training in areas such as ultrasound and pediatrics.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE

We provide both immediate disaster response and long-term investments in the healthcare system to build capacity, making Haiti more resilient against natural disasters.
